About EHE 360

In January 2020, The EHE Foundation organized the inaugural EHE 360 International Conference as part of the first step in the development of an international, patient-led EHE research network. This groundbreaking virtual two-day event was attended by nearly two hundred researchers, clinicians, patients, and industry partners from around the world.

The 2022 conference will be held on January 28th - 29th and will aim to define and advance research priorities and expand sustainable participation of clinicians, researchers, and patients by:

EDUCATION: Increasing knowledge and understanding of key issues central to the diagnosis, treatment, and cure for EHE

INNOVATION: Providing a novel, catalytic framework to identify gaps and foster dialogue in basic, translational, and clinical research of EHE

COLLABORATION: Stimulating an interdisciplinary sharing of clinical best practices by strengthening and supporting global collaboration world-wide

EHE 360 is organized and hosted by The EHE Foundation (US) working in collaboration with our global partners, including The EHE Rare Cancer Charity (UK) and The EHE Rare Cancer Foundation (Australia).

EDUCATION | INNOVATION | COLLABORATION

EHE 360 will bring together researchers, clinicians, and patients from around the world to advance the fight for treatments and a cure for EHE.

We sincerely appreciate your generous support of EHE 360!

What is EHE?

Epithelioid Hemangioendothelioma (EHE) is an ultra-rare vascular sarcoma, a type of cancer that grows from the cells that make up the blood vessels and can occur anywhere in the body, most commonly in the liver, lungs, and bones. The estimated incidence of EHE is less than 1 per million people.

EHE has an unpredictable clinical course, which may be indolent for years punctuated by periods of tumor growth. There are no well-established standards of care or approved treatments. Clinical outcomes are highly unpredictable and overall survival varies widely depending upon tumor location and progression. Because EHE is so rare, many doctors have no knowledge of it and patients very often experience misdiagnoses and misinformation.

About The EHE Foundation

Founded in 2015, The EHE Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to the pursuit of effective treatments and ultimately a cure for EHE by increasing awareness, pursuing scientific research, advocating for and supporting EHE patients, and bridging information between researchers, clinicians, and patients. The EHE Foundation has made significant advances toward our mission by:

- Being an essential resource to a global community of over 2,000 patients and families in over 70 countries.
- Awarding over $250,000 in research grants globally to date.
- Initiating critical patient-led research projects including a Natural History Study, EHE Biobank, and a Prospective Observational Study.
- Connecting expert clinicians with patients to improve diagnosis and access to essential specialty care.
- Maintaining a comprehensive publications reference library for clinicians and patients.
- Facilitating educational and collaborative forums including patients, clinicians and researchers.
- Working collaboratively with global expert scientists to accelerate essential model development and disease understanding.
